

HILLARD'S GENERAL STORE
(THE OLD POSTOFFICE)
60 MAIN STREET

This building was built between 1816 and 1828. It housed Hillard's Store in the early 1900s. Before the Town Hall was established in 1904, the Town Clerk's office was located here. It had the first telephone in town. Although this building was probably built in an earlier style (Federal) due to its construction date (ca 1816), it is a good example of the Greek Revival style with a fully pedimented front gable and fine details. Greek Revival details include modillions, the triangular gable-end window, and the front porch which is supported by octagonal posts and also ornamented with modillions.

The Post Office once housed in the Holmes block (now the hardware store) moved to this location, where it functioned until August 1986. It is now home to the law office of William H. Hescok, Esq.
